OFFICERS BAFFLED IN INVESTIGATION OF MARSH MYSTERY

Supposed Victim Has Returned Home; Authorities Split

New Castle, Pa., Oct. 22.—The marshes near West Pittsburgh have tenaciously held the mystery of the murders recently committed. Whether the marsh was the scene of the ghastly crimes unearthed in the past sixteen days or a cemetery for victims murdered elsewhere remained unknown. Skulls and parts of three bodies thus far have been found in the swamp. The work of actual investigation is at a standstill.

Authorities, baffled at every turn have little more to work with than they did Sunday when the search of the Marsh was begun. Attempts to identify the three victims will continue, but the condition of the bones found make identification virtually impossible.

Lawrence County officials have definitely split in the hunt for solution of the baffling mysteries.

The clash of authority became known today when Sheriff W. G. Andrews, let it be known that he has been working "secretly and independently" of County Detective J. M. Dunlap, who has been leading the posse into the swamp.

Each believes the other to be wrong and laughs at the other's views.

Sheriff Andrews is the one who dug up the "identification" of the first body as that of W. W. Fletcher, of Columbus, O., formerly of Youngstown and which was shattered when Fletcher turned up at his Columbus home.

Andrews is still of the opinion he has a definite solution of the murders.

Columbus, Oct. 22.—W. W. Fletcher, whom Akron authorities believed they had identified as one of three victims of the mysterious "marsh murder" near New Castle, Pa., was at home here today.

Fletcher returned last night unaware his name had been linked with the "hell hollow" deaths until so informed by his wife.

Positive Fletcher had been one of the victims. Akron authorities yesterday announced identification of one of the bodies proved conclusively that Fletcher was one of those killed.

"I did not know I had been 'murdered' until I came home," Fletcher said, attributing his connection with the case to an unidentified man who "delights in mysteries."

The man Fletcher referred to, called Mrs. Fletcher a week ago, telling her that her husband had been identified as one of the Marsh murder victims.

"My wife disregarded the message because she had just received a letter from me," Fletcher said.

TAX COMMITTEE BARS POLITICS AT HEARING; FARMERS SEEK RELIEF

Washington, Oct. 22.—Following a series of political tilts with members of the Iowa Tax Club, the ways and means committee today ordered politics barred from discussion at its hearings and instructed future witnesses to confine themselves exclusively to taxes.

Representative Oldfield, Democrat, Arkansas, raised the questions when the committee met for its fourth hearing on the new $300,000,000 tax reduction bill and asked that no more political arguments be indulged in.

"Political discussion is not in order before the committee," Chairman

Green, Republican of Iowa, ruled.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Farmers and bankers brought their taxation to the ways and means committee today pleading for relief in the new tax bill.

Farmers want their co-operative marketing organizations exempt from levies and the bankers sought reduction of corporation taxes and repeal of the publicity provision.

TEN ARMED BANDITS ROB THREE RESERVE BANK MESSENGERS

Two Mail Pouches Are Taken; Amount of Loot Not Known

Chicago, Oct. 22.—Ten armed bandits early today robbed three Federal Reserve Bank messengers of two mail pouches and a packet supposed to contain currency as they were wheeling the parcels in a push-cart to the bank.

James B. McDougal, governor of the bank, said he felt the loss was small while other officials estimated the loot at "some thousands of dollars."

Not until a check is made later will the exact amount be known. Messengers had secured the packages from an American Express Company office at 1 a. m. and were in the heart of the financial district when the ten men drove up in two automobiles, covered them with revolvers and shotguns and demanded the packages.

FEDERAL BANK HEAD OF FOURTH DISTRICT DIES IN CLEVELAND

David C. Wills Is Called Following An Operation

Cleveland, O., Oct. 22.—David C. Wills, 53, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of the Fourth District, died at a hospital today. He had suffered a relapse following an operation for an abdominal ailment.

Wills became chairman of the board of the Reserve Bank in October 1914. A year later he was appointed member of the National Federal Reserve Board.

He came to Cleveland from Pittsburgh where he was cashier and a director of the Diamond National Bank, and a director of the Diamond Savings Bank.

Wills was graduated from Allegheny High School in 1889 and entered the Mechanics National Bank of Pittsburgh, as a messenger. His rise in banking circles was steady if not spectacular.

From 1902 to 1904, he was with the Mellon National Bank of Pittsburgh. He was made President of the newly organized Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Institute of Banking in 1902.

On May 23, 1895, Wills married Miss Bessie A. Seville, of Bellevue, Pa. He was a trustee of Westminster College, New Wilmington, Pa., and of the Kent, Ohio state normal school. He was a Republican. Wills attended the United Presbyterian church and was treasurer of the Young Men's Christian Association here.

Herbert Wills, the son had been rushed to the hospital for a blood transfusion operation in an effort to save his father's life. Physicians, however, deemed Wills' condition so grave that the transfusion was not permitted.

Members of the family were called to the bedside and were present when death came shortly before 3 a. m.

CHARRED MATERIAL FOUND IN FURNACE MAY BE HUMAN BONES

Chemists Examining Ashes Taken From School Heater

Columbus, O., Oct. 22.—Charred material that may have been human bones was found today in ashes taken from the furnace of a school on the outskirts of Cornish, O.

The discovery was made by C. F. Long, Columbus chemist who began an analysis of the ashes at the request of Cornish authorities, who believe a year old baby was cremated in the stove.

"The charred pieces appear to be the sediment of human bones but a thorough chemical examination will be required to determine this definitely," Long said.

The ashes were brought to Columbus after Mrs. Allison Linscott, janitress, found the building broken into and a stifling odor, apparently that of burning flesh, filling the structure.

WEATHER BUREAU SENDS OUT SAMPLES

What has become of October? Xenians asked themselves this question Thursday after an investigation showed there had been nothing since September 30 but weather.

Calendars say October with autumn brides, sunshiny days, crisp mornings and evenings and varicolored leaves was scheduled for this time of year. What became of it is a source of worry.

So far since September there has been nothing but November with more of it scheduled for next month. Cold rain sunk Xenians the first half of this month, whatever it is, and a dash of March Wednesday turned later in the day to a bit of December.

Efforts are being made to determine if this is a sample sheet sent out by the weather bureau to show different styles of weather that may be expected here during a twelvemonth. In a voting contest no day so far would finish in the money.

Snow Wednesday night was both wet and ambitious. It clung to wires, roofs and trees like a poor relation. After resting up several months, the sun came out Thursday weaker than ever but just strong enough to turn the snow into water and the water into the atmosphere.

It was cold Thursday with little promise of anything different.

Graft, Waste, Extravagance or Incompetency Blamed For State Affairs—Jury Probes Highway Matters—May Call Legislature

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 22.—"There is one of four things wrong with Texas state affairs—graft, waste, extravagance or incompetency—it may be all of them," declared State Representative T. K. Irwin today in an interview regarding calling a special session of the Texas legislature.

Rep. Irwin said he was in favor of a special session for the purpose of investigating Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson's pardon record and the state highway commission.

A petition for a special session, was first issued by Rep. A. H. King, of Throckmorton, Tex., and yesterday Speaker Lee Satterwhite of the Texas house of representatives, who is in Washington issued a statement, threatening to call the session.

Nine acts of clemency yesterday of Governor Ferguson raised the grand total of clemency acts performed to 951. Of this number 155 are full pardons and 404 are conditional.

Irwin said government affairs should be above suspicion. He asserted he did not object to former governor James E. Ferguson advising Governor Ferguson, except in cases where the former was interested financially.

Irwin objected to the governor's daughter having an alleged lien on the selling of state insurance.

Irwin was connected prominently with an investigation of state prison affairs, a year ago.

Anstin, Texas, Oct. 22.—Question of whether a special session of the Texas legislature would be called to investigate alleged irregularities in the conduct of state's offices, was as much in the air as ever today as the Travis County grand jury resumed its inquiry into state highway matters.

Upon the outcome of the jury's investigation, may depend the calling of a special session which Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson has denounced as a waste of taxpayers' money.

Those in favor of the session were said to be anxious to call the legislature together to look into reports and rumors of alleged mismanagement of state affairs, which involves, among other things, letting of road contracts, by Gov. Ferguson.

Athens, Oct. 22.—Greek troops, according to information given today, proposed to attack during the forenoon, Bulgarian forces are still occupying a portion of Greek territory in the vicinity of Demthrisar in Northern Macedonia.

Greek airplanes early today were reconnoitering over the Bulgarian positions, as the time limit for Greece's ultimatum to Bulgaria, drew toward a close.

At this writing the situation appeared unclear, but it contains elements which may lead to complications in the Balkans, ancient trouble spot of Europe.

The reported occupation by Greek forces of the Petritsi district was confirmed today. This move was undertaken by the Greeks in order to enforce its demands for reparations in connection with Bulgarian Comitadjis raids upon Demthrisar and their occupation of that region.

Vienna, Oct. 22.—Sofia advices today said the Bulgarian cabinet had decided to protest to the league of nations against what it terms the Greek invasion of the Petritsi district and to appeal to the allies to permit Bulgarian to mobilize sufficient troops to defend her sovereignty.

LITTLE CRIME IN LONDON.

SOMETIMES comparisons are interesting and helpful and for that reason it might be worth-while to certain cities in the United States to survey the crime situation in London and England generally as compared to this country.

A call for more police in London is being made by Chief Commissioner General Sir William Horwood in his annual report. He says the recent rapid growth in population and the increasing duties of the police makes the present force inadequate. London now has 18,540 uniformed police, 842 detectives and 50 women for a population of more than 7,000,000. Last year 1,457 police were injured in the performance of their duty but this was due to the London rule whereby police are unarmed. They have only a small baton which must be carried in the pocket and must not be used unless the policeman believes his life is in danger.

One could scarcely imagine a policeman going unarmed in any of our cities over 10,000 in this country, and yet London has found it to work very successfully in spite of those injured.

Last year the police of that city arrested 68,057 persons and recovered $3,320,000 in stolen property. Six persons were arrested for murder last year, of whom one was hanged, two found insane, two acquitted and one was discharged. There were only three unsolved murders. Think of that! And yet Chicago recently had a record of murders in one week which would equal London's for a year, and Chicago is just half the population of London. Doesn't that make one pause and wonder what a deplorable situation crime has gotten this country into. Five policemen were killed in one week in Chicago; not a one was killed in London during the past year.

And the alarming part of it to the United States lies in the fact that apparently crime, instead of being curbed, is on the increase. The newspapers are full of daily murders, not because the newspapers want to bring accounts of them, but because they are the outstanding news of the day in many cases, and because their numbers exert a certain influence on the news of the day. Perhaps eventually it will be up to the newspapers to help solve many of them, anyway.

It is pretty hard to determine just why England has so little crime and why, too, it is running rampant in this country. Perhaps the fact that England has made such few laws accounts for part of it. But undoubtedly there are other causes, too, and American cities would do well to investigate.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS OF RAILROADS.

ONE of the most remarkable anniversaries of history is being celebrated this year, the Urbana Democrat observes, in the completion of the first century of railroad operation. A tablet has just been set up at Stockton, England, having the following inscription:

"Here in 1825, the Stockton and Darlington railway company booked the first railway passenger, thus marking an epoch in the history of mankind."

In America a few tramways were built with wooden rails, in the early part of the century, and were operated with horses. The first use of a locomotive occurred in 1829 on the railway from Carbondale to Honesdale, Pa.

American energy soon made wide use of this new idea. In 1830 there were 23 miles of railroad in operation in this country, in 1840 there were 2818, and by the beginning of the Civil war there was quite an extensive system for those days, covering over 30,000 miles.

The changes that have come during the past century have been amazing, but possibly those created by the construction of railroads have been more important than those due to any one later invention, though some may say that the telegraph, making possible the quick transmission of intelligence, was of equal importance.

The United States went forward by leaps and bounds as soon as the railroads and telegraphs began to operate. The states that had been scattered, and more or less unfriendly sections, began to feel that they were a nation, they acquired power, and prosperity grew rapidly. Newspapers developed, intelligence spread, and the progress of all the arts became rapid. The world owes a great debt to the original thinkers whose bright minds brought about this revolutionary transformation.

IF THE FOREMAN COULD EXPLAIN

Suppose the foreman said: "Here's a chance to get ahead. If you do your best this morning with this task I'm giving you. If you do this small thing neatly and you finish it completely I shall come again and give you more important work to do."

Suppose, to make the rhyme, That your foreman had the time With each order which he issued To explain it, through and through

And should seriously say: "Now don't throw this chance away."

This is not a box you're making. It's a thing which stands for you.

"As a toiler or a shirk."

We shall know you from your work. "The future you are building. Here's the chance. Now go ahead."

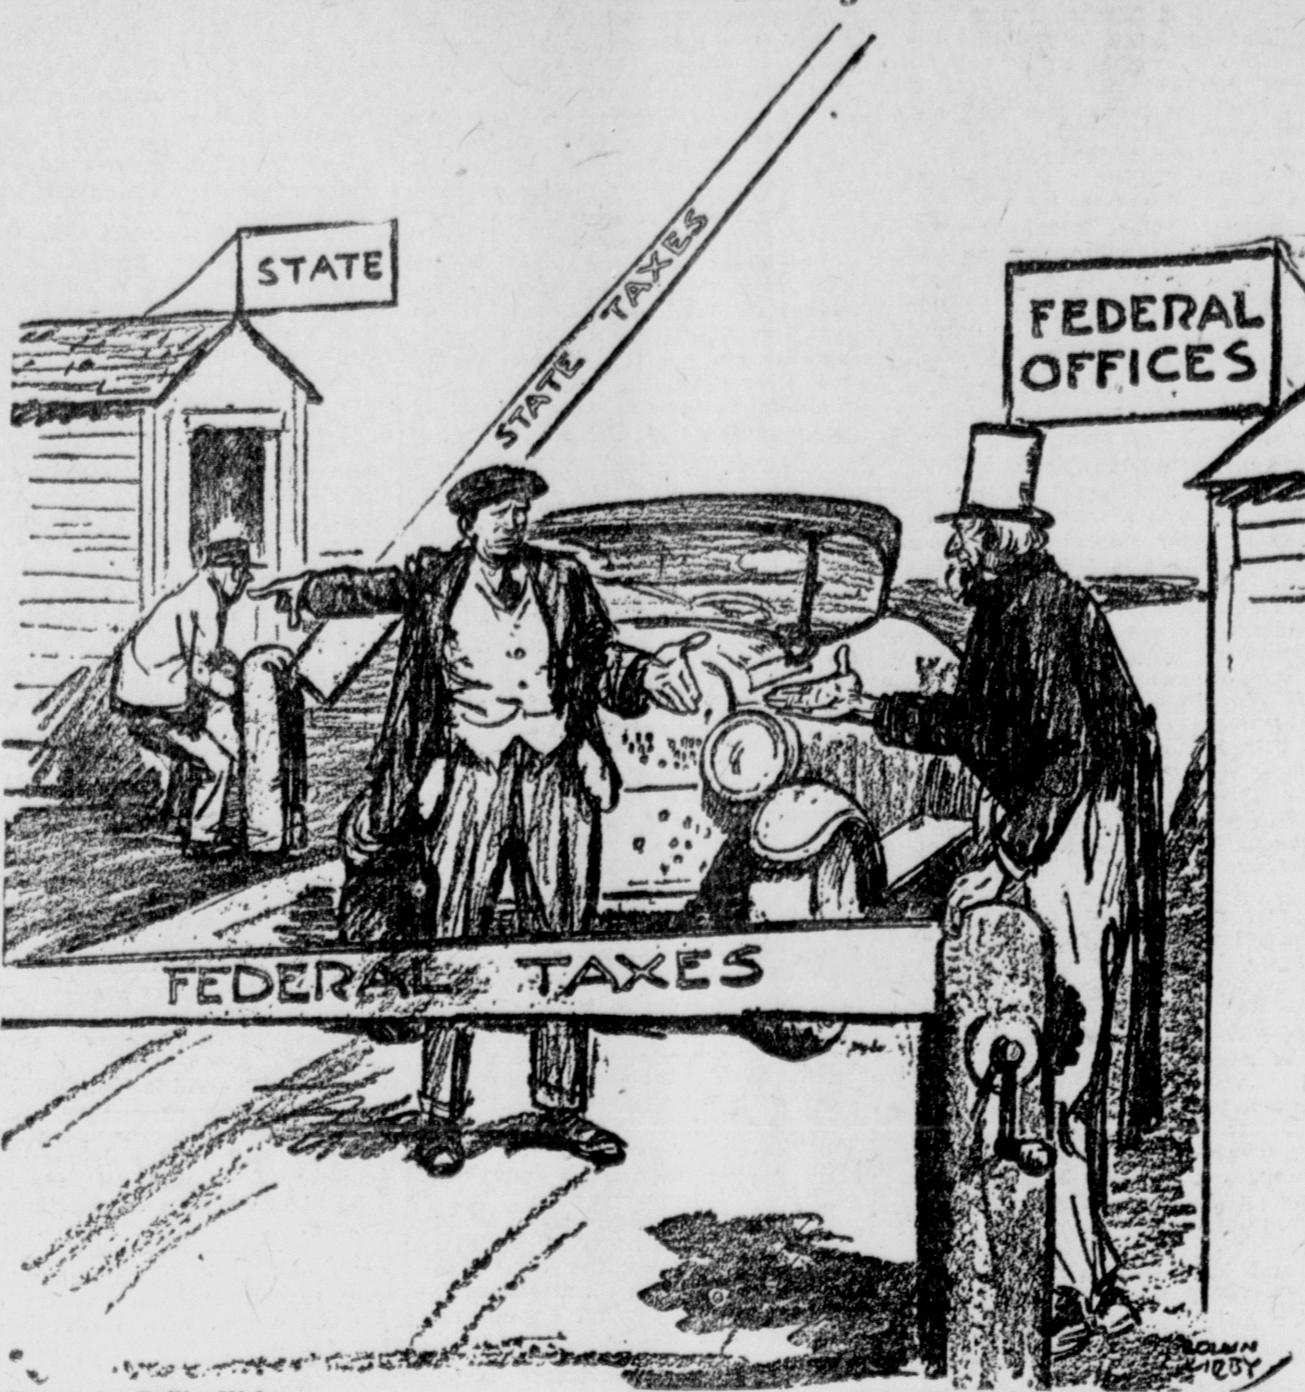

Would you throw it all away Merely drifting through the day?

If, with every task assigned you, All of this each time was said?

Now, the foreman cannot drop All his duties, just to stop And tell you how important Is the work you have to do.

But there's not a task so small Which to you perchance may fall But it shapes your fame and future And it leaves its stamp on you.

The Extra Toll Gate

Drawn by Rollin Kirby

Advocating that the state should be the only taxing agency of the motor vehicle, motor societies are holding a series of 130 conventions in all parts of the United States, seeking the repeal of Federal war excise taxes on automotive products.

In addition to the state license and other fees, the buyer of a car today must pay a 5% Federal war tax, an amount ranging from about $15 to $150. In the fiscal year 1924 the total Federal taxes on automotive products amounted to $158,000,000.

State fees are as a rule applied to highway work and regulation. The Federal war excise taxes are war time levies going into the general treasury.

Buy an inexpensive snap-purse, such cover it, all but the nickel part at the mouth, with two colored silk hand kerchiefs folded in the center and this center part sewed onto the purse.

When completed, the article looks, from one side, merely as if you were holding a handkerchief up by grasping its center—with the four points hanging down—except for the little nickel ridge with the purse-snap-bail riding above the handkerchief. A child would admire such a gift as this for Christmas.

Potato Emery—I passed a store window and in it saw what I thought, at first glance, was a small, brown potato.

But on closer inspection I saw that it was made of brown China silk (stuffed with emery powder) and its "eyes" were brown embroidery silk, here and there, tied, and cut off close. It would be an amusing little article for one's work basket.

Doll Laundry Bag—This is just a long bag with a slit in it (through which soiled clothes are put) and, at top, decorated with a small, inexpensive doll. At first glance the article appears to be a doll, hung up by a cord around her waist, and wearing very long skirts (the "skirts" being the bag). It would be especially pretty in a child's room.

RESPECT

You can't get very far with your friend if you do not respect him. Respect always precedes love and admiration.

The other evening I was reading a little book by a Spaniard who wrote during the seventeenth century. His name was Gracian. He wrote many wise things. He says that you can tell the true worth of metals by their ring and that you can judge men by the sound of their voices.

Surely there is something very convincing about a sincere ring to a voice. Just the minute you hear a people speak you know that you can trust and tie to them. You invite respect, not so much by what you say as by the sound of what you say.

You can show the friend whom you respect through every room in your heart life and can know that nothing is going to be violated and that no confidence is going to be cast aside.

With respect gone the house falls. You keep faith with those you respect. You tie to their loyalty, you go the route with them. You hunt them out when you need them most and you are assured in advance that they will not desert you.

There is a true blueness to all respect that makes it one of the sacred virtues that needs no introduction.

Nations that respect each other can encounter no serious difficulties. When a man is respected by all his friends he needs little else. He may not be wealthy nor scholarly nor famous. He is just liked and loved—that's all.

When you respect character you pay a tribute to the immortal in a man.

SPANISH ROMANCE BLOSSOMS IN AKRON

Akron, Ohio, Oct. 22—Romance budded and blossomed in a rooming house where Mike Terres, a Mexican youth, met vivacious Gladys Cruz, of Spanish Seminole parentage.

In a few days they wandered into the Court House and asked for a marriage license. It was a case of love at first sight, romance twinkling in the blood of old Spain and in old Mexico.

The application for the license was made, the list of questions had been answered and the time for signatures came. When Mike said he could not write his bride said, "that's all right, I'll teach him."

Mike made his mark and the last chapter of the romance was written by the court clerkman.

Father of Physical Culture

BERNARD MACFADDEN

If there is any hobby that is worth while it is one that takes us out of doors. What the attractive features of your hobby may be is not of very great importance provided this object is secured.

There are various open-air pastimes that can be made unusually vigorous, and so can be highly recommended if one is possessed of ordinary strength. Football is perhaps one of the most strenuous of out-door games, and so is to be especially recommended where one has the vitality and endurance which fits him for an exercise of this character. Golf is an example of a milder outdoor pastime that is particularly suited to middle-aged and elderly persons, although young men and women are benefited by it, too. It affords excellent exercise in walking, and the swinging of the golf clubs affords more exercise for the chest, arms and back than is usually supposed. One who is not accustomed to the game will usually find the muscles of the arms, shoulders and chest sore or at least stiff from the unusual exercise, when first attempting to play the game.

Tennis furnishes a vigorous exercise that is especially commendable for adding to one's vitality. It is a good endurance builder. Tennis can be made fast and energetic, or as leisurely and moderate as one wishes, depending entirely upon the skill, strength and ability of the player. It is a safe and sane pastime that is growing in popularity and can be universally recommended for both sexes and all ages.

Swimming is of great value, both as a means of physical development and as a health builder, but if your vitality is limited do not stay in the water too long. Swimming may be made mild or very strenuous. If you swim with the skill of an expert, only a very moderate exertion is required, though some of the new racing strokes tax the strength and endurance of the strongest athlete. Swimming combines the pleasures of bathing and exercise, and under proper conditions is invaluable. Those who are "fleshy" can stay in the water a long time, but if you are thin take care lest you lose weight by too much bathing. It may even cause one to gain in weight if the exercise is not prolonged, but persons of this type usually lose weight in the course of a season of too much bathing.

The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted

By GERTRUDE S. de WENTWORTH-JAMES

SYNOPSIS

E. J. Bledsoe, politician, calls on John Mannering, district attorney, and reveals that the presence of Mrs. Mannering in a raid on a notorious inn was the result of a plot to bring about Jerome Wallace's election to the office. Young Bob Mannering is accused of causing a woman's death in a motor car smash and his mother was advised this was the best way to bring about his release, as Mannering, as district attorney, insisted upon prosecuting his son.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

"See her—see her and explain. She'll forgive you, don't worry about that," said Bledsoe with all the confidence of a man whose rest has been unbroken.

"But, Bledsoe, I—I left her. I don't know where she is!" groaned John repentantly.

"I do," said Bledsoe, producing the telegram from his daughter. "See here. Diane says she's there. That must mean Meadville."

"You never heard of it, Mannering. It's a little village near my country place. My car is outside. Come on, let's go."

CHAPTER XIV

All that day Eileen lay stretched across the bed in her little room at the hotel utterly motionless. Sleeping the sleep of complete exhaustion, she might almost have been dead. For her wearied body Nature had decreed an armistice; for her tired soul had granted a cessation of grief in gentle slumber.

Yet to Diane Bledsoe, at her father's lodge in the forest, came no such peace. While her telegram to her father had allayed in a measure that excess of terror which, seemingly inspired by the sight of Eileen at the little hotel, had sent the girl galloping madly homeward as if pursued by the devil himself, she seemed obsessed by fears which found expression in great nervousness.

"But, Bledsoe, I—I left her. I don't know where she is!"

For a time after the message had gone she stationed herself at a front window of the lodge and gazed back over the wooded hills through which she had just ridden so madly as if expecting a pursuer to appear at any moment. It was a beautiful view she gazed upon, in its peace and restfulness the last place from which harm might emerge. Before her eyes an undulating sea of green stretched away for miles to where in the hazy distance it was bounded by the silvery thread of the river.

A remarkable site was this that Bledsoe had chosen for his summer home. All about it a primeval forest, within whose majestic aisles the ax of man had never sounded, yet which echoed to the distant whistles of locomotives and the low moan of far away factory sirens, while sometimes overhead an aeroplane vied with the eagle's flight. A few hours' ride and all the activities of civilization pulsed about one, but here amidst these giants of the ages the centuries seemed turned back, and they in philosophical calm to scorn the march of progress.

It was Bledsoe's great wealth which had made this thing possible. Out of some complicated business transaction he had emerged the owner of this vast tract as simply as if he, a marauder baron, had laid subject to his sword a choice bit of a neighboring kingdom. Now, like some lord of the middle ages, he could go forth at his forest domain as far as the eye could see.

Bledsoe seemed to love this forest, yet it is doubtful if he had ever penetrated its depths more than a few steps from the roadside in all the years that he had owned it. This, however, was not true of Diane. Like a dryad of these hills, she had run wild in their shadowed recesses since infancy. Now, disturbed as she was by some inward fear, they seemed to call to her.

Making her way downstairs she moved off into the quiet woodland with the assurance of familiarity. A few steps and all semblance of a path had disappeared. But on she went, circling a mass of underbrush here or some monstrous giant which lay prone there. Now there lay before her a bed of pine needles as soft as any carpet, then she must climb a rotten log, which, dry as punk, shivered off a splinter beneath her light tread.

Careless! Diane moved away quite heedless that her foot had not stepped upon the lighted end of her cigarette or that her action had merely shifted it into the cup of a leaf as dry as tinder. Hardly had she gone twenty yards before a thread of smoke lifted itself perhaps an inch from the ground, as might the coil of a tiny serpent.

Crackle! Pop! Zoom! It is a flaming torch, a torch to spread destruction far and near. Bledsoe's forest is afire!

Such a disaster was farthest from Bledsoe's thoughts as he sped towards his lodge with John Mannering at his side. In fact, he was at peace with the world and himself, particularly himself. Had he not extricated himself with promptness and honor from a most disagreeable situation in respect to the election? Having acted so righteously he was inclined to take a calm view of life. Although he had urged John to proceed with him to Meadville with the utmost dispatch, no sooner had they started than, from John's point of view, he grew most exasperatingly dilatory. He had to stop at his office and leave instructions. His chauffeur had better go and get gas. There was a fire that should be changed. Then it was almost lunch time, they had better have lunch. Inwardly John fretted and fumed at the imp of procrastination which had seized the man. Alone and with his own car he would have been well on the way. But uplifted by hope, where all had been hopeless, he had borne the delay stoically.

At last they were off. Filled with impatience, John fretted under their slow progress through the congested traffic. He was on pins and needles as they sped more swiftly through the environs of the city. Finally out on the highway as the speedometer began to climb, he sank back in his corner with a sigh of relief and left Bledsoe complacently enjoying his cigar in the other.

On, on they went through the long hours of the afternoon. It was a silent ride. And now John found himself the prey of a thousand fears and regrets. Would Eileen forgive him? Once reached she must be made to understand. In his repentance he was ready to go to any lengths to restore himself in her graces. But he had accused her of dreadful things—in his anger said terrible things. How terrible he was not quite sure. She must be made to understand the misapprehension under which he had labored. Ah, but Eileen was proud! Would she forgive him? There was the rub.

On, on they went against a rising wind which did not fall with the setting of the sun. Twilight came and darkness. As they topped the hill John thought he perceived a red glow in the sky.

"There's a town ahead or a big fire," he told Bledsoe.

"Can't be," said the other with all the assurance of exact knowledge.

On, on they went, while the miles sped by. Once more they topped the hill.

"Look!" cried Bledsoe, sitting up and staring ahead with startled eyes. "It is a fire, as I live, an immense one! But what can it be?"

A fierce gust of wind swept down on the car and John sniffed the air.

"It's a forest fire!" he cried. "Don't you smell it?"

Ambition is most often prompted by a thoroughly healthy body. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings permanent relief from constipation.

"Shoulders that droop and feet that drag"

There is a sure relief from this disease. It is Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN goes completely through the system without changing its fiber. ## BEA WALSH DENIED DIVORCE IN DAYTON

Dayton, O., Oct. 22.—Judge Roland W. Baggot of Domestic Relations court today rendered a classical decision in the action for divorce instituted by Beatrice Louise Walsh, against Nicholas J. Walsh, Jr., Cincinnati millionaire.

Judge Baggot refused to recognize the alleged common law marriage set up in the complaint, and therefore denied the plea for divorce and alimony.

The decision is typical of the judge who drew it. It covers seventeen typewritten pages and scathingly denounces Walsh and the plaintiff for their actions in Dayton and elsewhere and for the reputation both established in this and other cities.

Under the ruling, the restraining order tying up the entire Walsh estate in Cincinnati worth millions, is automatically dissolved.

By JAY V. JAY

Dad and the Goofer are in the background. Dad knows when his cue will come and he has his check book ready. The Goofer is gaining a little education concerning furs and feminine fashions. Mitzi tries on a leopard skin combined with beaver. It flares gracefully. Stunning.

Now pony-kin Mitzi explains to Dad and the Goofer is very smart. This particular model has a low bloused effect. The collars and cuffs are of lynx. Dad says that it looks warm enough. The Goofer is stunned into silence. Dad is really sympathetic. He suffered the same way. He would like to whisper to the Goofer that it isn't the initial cost but the upkeep.

This coat is a combination of pony-skin and burunduki susliki (what ever that is). It is a handsome combination by any name. And Mitzi is wondering if this is the coat that would be the most distinctive she could own. The Goofer has found his voice enough to say that he likes it.

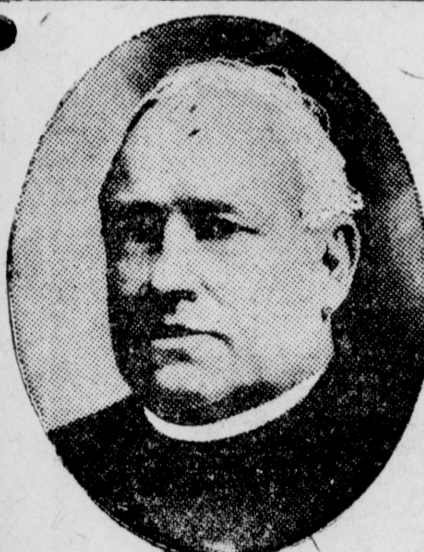

But this, this is the wrap that brings the "ohs" and "ahs" from both Dad and the Goofer. Mitzi thought it would. She saved it till last for a final effect. It is chinchilla and white ermine. There may be a few whispered words but in the end, Mitzi will get the coat she wants. The Goofer is thinking that his love for Mitzi must have a very, very strong backing.

SEVEN TICKETS WILL BE HANDED XENIANS AT NOVEMBER 3 ELECTION IN GREENE COUNTY

Seven ballots will be handed Xenians going to the polls November 3 to exercise their rights of citizenship at the municipal elections, it is announced by Earl Short clerk of the election board.

Xenians will be asked to vote for candidates on the township ticket, city commission ticket, judicial ticket, Xenia board of education ticket, on three state amendments to the constitution a special tax levy for Xenia city school district and a proposed amendment to the city charter.

Local voters will vote on a proposed amendment to the city charter in an effort made by city officials to solve the municipal court situation.

A decision to amend the charter arose after the state supreme court, ruling on a similar police court tangle in Gallipolis, held that municipal courts cannot legally be established without consent of the state legislature through a special act and that judges must be elected and not appointed as the Xenia charter provides.

It is proposed to amend the charter by repealing sections eight and nine providing for designation by the city commission of one of its number to act as mayor and empowering him with all judicial functions of a mayor with the exception of veto power.

A six cornered race will be made for places on the commission with only three vacancies to be filled. Candidates for commission are Perry A. Alexander, retired farmer; Karl R. Babb, hardware merchant; James G. Cowan, railroad; S. Milton McKay, building and loan official; John W. Prugh, real estate man and Charles H. Russell, colored business man.

McKay and Prugh are present members holding appointive positions, but seeking election for a full term. Judge H. L. Smith, president of the body, withdrew his candidacy for re-election to save the city expense of a primary. Had seven candidates sought the position, or more than twice the number of vacancies to be filled, a primary would have been necessary.

Seven candidates have entered for Xenia township trustee with only three vacancies to be filled and a lively fight is predicted. Graham Bryson, John W. Hedges and Ward Grant incumbents are seeking re-election, while Joseph Gatrell, James L. Patterson, Clarence Riley and Harry Selfert are also seeking places on the body.

The Xenia township clerk office has two candidates for one vacancy George H. McKee, clerk of county education board, opposing J. H. McPherson, incumbent. A. C. Garwood will oppose J. E. Jones for justice of the peace on the judicial ticket. The magistrate vacancy is the only judicial vacancy. Mr. Jones is incumbent.

Interest in the city board of education race is also at fever heat. With two vacancies existing, three candidates seek to supplant retiring members who have refused to run again. Candidates for the school board are Mrs. J. H. Denbow, James D. Adair and J. J. Stout. Retiring members are Attorney Harry D. Smith and Jacob Kany. Mr. Kany has been a member of the board for the past twenty-five years and his decision to withdraw from the race came as a surprise.

A lively race is in prospect for positions on the Greene County board of education. Names of six candidates will be placed before voters with only three vacancies to fill. Candidates are W. B. Bryson, Clyde Conklin, A. L. Fisher, J. E. Hastings, H. S. Noggle and George C. Smith.

Xenia voters will also be asked to approve a measure of the Xenia City School District asking for a tax levy of three mills for five years for general school purposes and to meet current running expenses.

Full tickets are being entered in a majority of townships in the county for municipal vacancies.

AILMENTS OF YOUNG GIRLS

Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound School Teacher's Experience

Evanson, Wyoming.—"A few years ago I had troubles every month such as girls often have, and would suffer awfully every time. I was teaching school and it made it hard for me as I had to go to bed for two or three days. One day my mother suggested that I take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which I did, and it did wonders for me.

In the course of a year I married and after my first baby was born I got up too soon and it caused a displacement. This troubled me so that I could hardly walk or do my housework. I knew what the Vegetable Compound did for me before so I took it again. It strengthened me and now I have five little kiddies. The eldest is six, the baby is five months old and I have two boys three years old and a boy of five years. I do all my own housework, washing and ironing, and I never felt better in my life. I owe my health to your wonderful medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."—Mrs. VERBENA CARPENTER, 127 2nd Avenue, Evanson, Wyoming.

STOMACH UPSET?

Get at the Real Cause—Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics, or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, away goes indigestion and stomach troubles. Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Take Olive Tablets the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. You will know them by their olive color. They do the work without gripping, cramps or pain.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like. 15c and 30c.

REPAID THIS MAN A DOZEN TIMES

"I have been repaid a dozen times over in improved health for every dollar I spent for Tanlac, and the medicine is still building me up every day," is the striking statement of Joseph DeSanne.

"Tanic has driven pains from my body that had troubled me for ten years. Besides backache, which almost killed me at times, I had rheumatic pain and swelling in my hands and legs, my circulation was poor, feet always cold, nerves undone, my stomach didn't feel right, I had regular headaches and I was a discouraged man.

"I have never seen the equal of Tanlac in my life. It has more than doubled my appetite, my stomach feels great and my general health is so improved that I can not praise Tanlac enough for what it has done and is still doing for me."

What Tanlac has done for others, it can do for you.

Tanic is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 millions of bottles sold.

Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

ONE-PROFIT Facilities Alone Make Possible

this Sedan of fine quality—at the lowest price ever placed on a Sedan by Studebaker

THERE was a time when the automobile buyer seeking greatest value for his dollar was justified in considering a car of second-grade quality, which was reasonably satisfactory from the standpoint of transportation alone.

But with the advent of Studebaker's One-Profit manufacturing policy, cars of the finest quality, such as the Standard Six Sedan illustrated below, are now only slightly higher in price than those of second grade.

This small difference in price is practically nothing in comparison to the vast difference in materials and workmanship—plus increased pride of ownership and the extra service that a Studebaker gives.

Under this One-Profit system we build in our own plants all bodies, engines, clutches, steering gears, differentials, springs, gear sets, axles, gray iron castings and drop forgings. Thus we eliminate extra profits and overhead that all other manufacturers (except Ford) must pay to outside parts and body makers—and what we save goes to the buyers of Studebaker cars.

And because we have facilities for manufacturing all vital parts on this One-Profit basis, we are able to design, engineer and build every Studebaker car as a complete harmonious unit. Being Unit-Built, the Studebaker functions as a unit—with all the advantages of unit over assembled construction.

The result is years longer life—scores of thousands of miles of excess transportation—greater riding comfort—minimum repair costs—and, finally, higher resale value.

A UNIT-BUILT CAR

Value Stabilized by
"No-Yearly-Models"

THE fine Studebaker Standard Six Sedan illustrated below is upholstered in genuine wool cloth. Carpets are wool. Windows are real plate glass. Four wide doors. Equipment includes an 8-day clock, gasoline gauge, coincidental lock to ignition and steering gear, automatic windshield cleaner, ash receiver, rear-view mirror, stop light, dome light, safety lighting coat of on steering wheel, and full-size balloon tires.

This Sedan has many superiorities—hidden as well as obvious. Body pillars are of fine northern white ash, cross-members of hard maple. We pay a premium for the best steels.

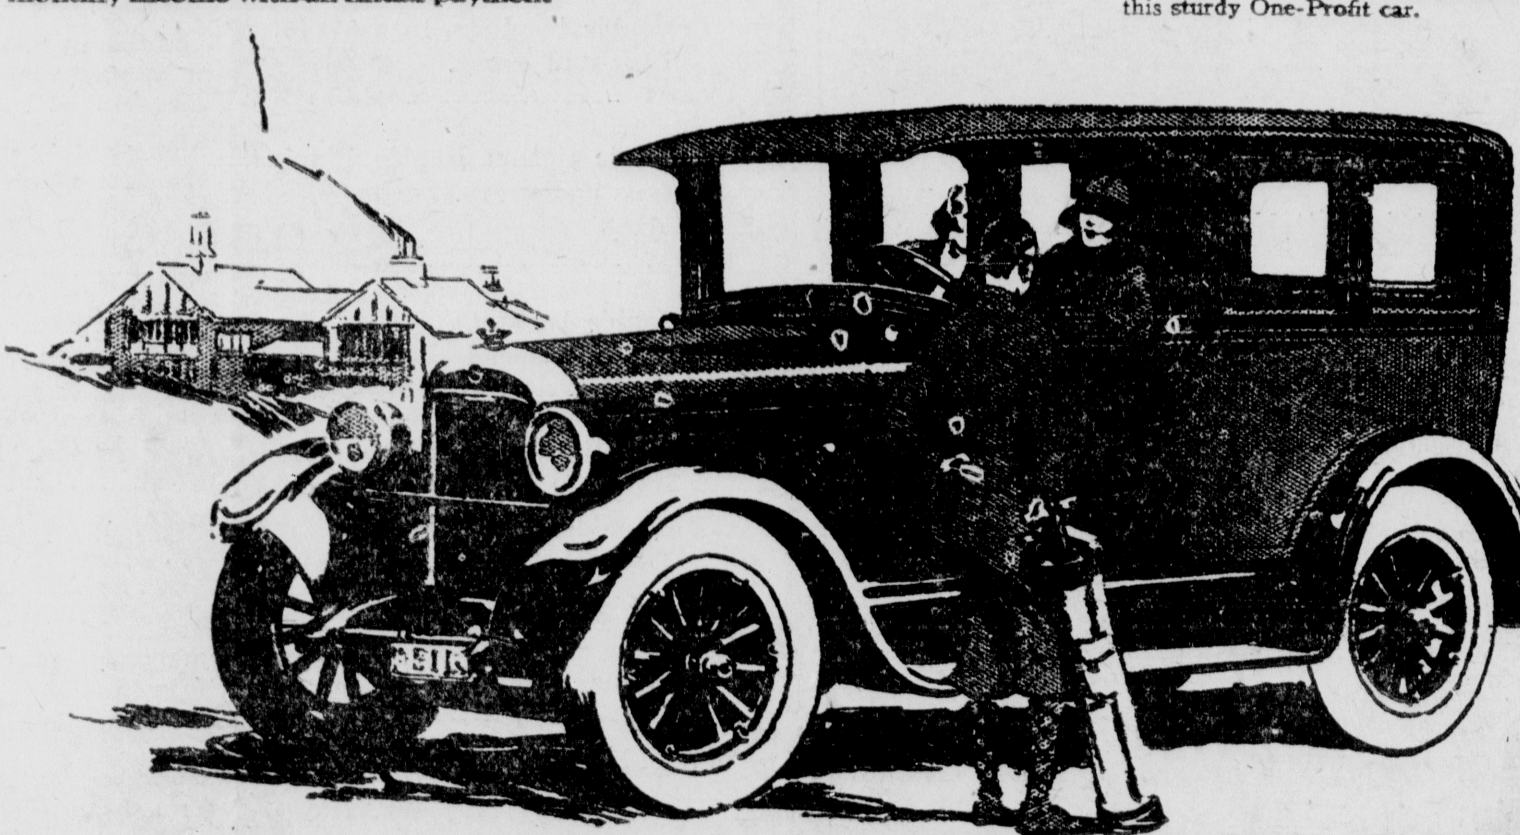

Slam the door and the sound says "quality." Swing on the door. Run one wheel up on the curb and note how the doors still open and close—how the motor still runs smoothly. Sit on the firm, heavy fenders. Try the steering gear. See how easily it handles the full-size balloon tires. Test the comfort of the deep, wide seats.

Run the engine—the most powerful in any car of its size and weight, according to the ratings of the N. A. C. C. and the Society of Automotive Engineers. This is Studebaker's lowest priced Sedan. Make comparisons—then realize why no car at a comparable price has more than superficial resemblance.

Come in and let us demonstrate this sturdy One-Profit car.

These Seven Men Wanted At ONCE!

Thomas Faulkner or Son, Xenia 6
Ross or Beam, Xenia 1
Art A. Cummings, Cedarville 3
P. H. Flynn or Son, Xenia

I issued a call for you folks last week along with 7 or 8 other big shooters in this community and I have heard from all of them except you folks up above. Several OTHERS too!

I aim to throw a party sometime within the next few days on a farm not far from here and I want PLENTY of attendance! The only way I'll find out whether you're interested is to have you lope in here and tell me so.

When I'm able to figure out a deal which will make ME a profit make YOU a FREE present of a $440.00 machine and put money in YOUR bank in ADDITION, I'd say I had a Real Reason to get fussy here on this page and you in turn have a real reason to get in here on this page and that you in turn have a Real Reason to get in touch with me PRONTO!

I told you about Warren Webb LAST week and there's no good use in repeating it again.

If you suspicion that it's this McD Corn Picker and Husker I'm excited about, I'm here to tell you YOU ARE RIGHT!

MACK

This space was reserved for the Sutton Twins' Editorial but both of them are suffering writer's cramp from making out orders for Studebakers. Verne says they have 65 USED CARS for sale—every brand. Watch for NEXT Week!

Corn Basket $1.35

Holds from 40 to 250 ears of corn, depending on size. Made of willow, I believe. Has a handle, sides and bottom. Makes good mushroom basket, dog bed, catfish creel, pup tent or bonfire when not in use for corn. All those buying 10 or more of these will have to pay $1.75 apiece for them.

Fly Nets

Will turn bees, hornets and horseflies. Fringe, when dropped in Olive Oil, polishes legs of trotters and pacers. No effect on runners. Can be used on Studebaker radiators wonderfully but nothing comes of it. NOT regular equipment.

Wrecking Bar 30c to 60c

There are only two classes of people who do not need a wrecking bar. Those who already OWN a bar and those who have nothing to wreck! Outside of those, a wrecking bar is a splendid home convenience, decorative as well as ornamental. Can also be used to make an elephant pay attention.

Guns! Ammunition!

A South American Revolutionist would feel at home here. We feel that we are able to satisfy the most finicky, picky shotgun just got in two cartloads of Remingtons, 4 cartloads of cartridges and dude in 8 counties from our stock, The Remington Pump gun 12 gauge at $51.00 stands WAY out!

Shorley Says:

I don't blame Mack much for wanting to fire me. He's got so dern rabby himself here lately since he's gone nuts on this corn picking gimpus that he don't leave enuf room on the page for me to do my stuff. Yesterday he called me one of these here "superfluties." If that means what I THINK IT does, I'm going to spend 60c on a wrecking bar and MOVE something!

CONGRESSMAN MAKES GOOD ON DONATION FOR ROAD MACHINE

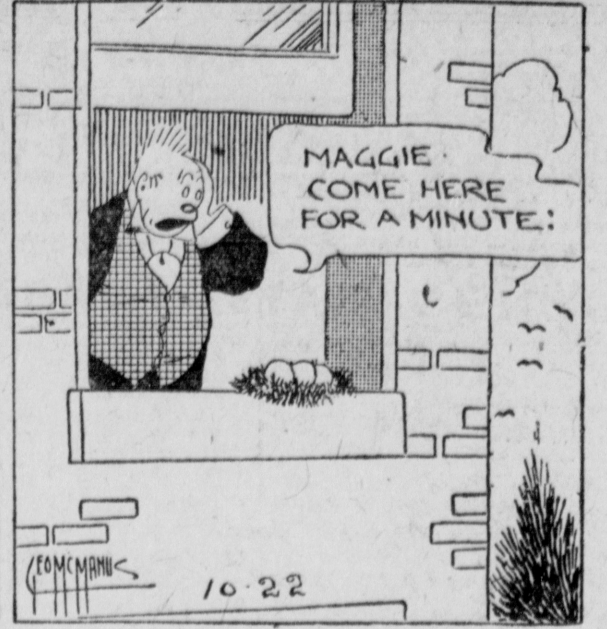

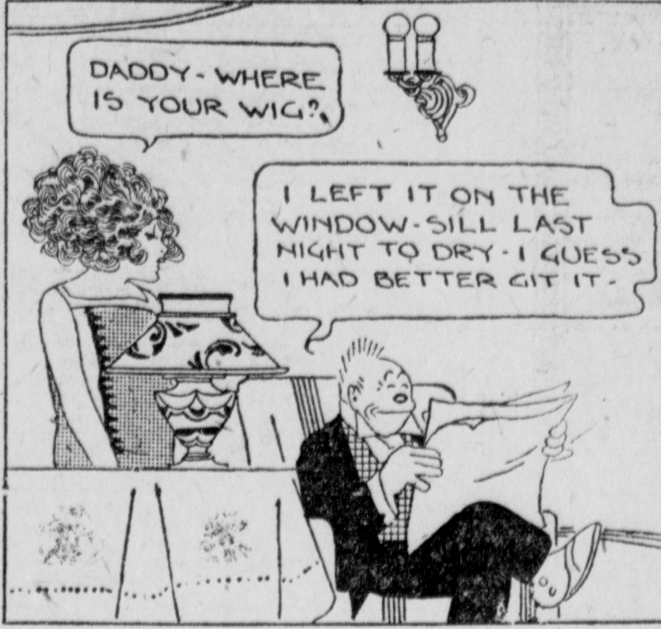

County Auditor R. O. Wead received a check for $500 Thursday, from Representative Charles Brand, Urbana, to be used by Greene County Commissioners to help purchase a road repair outfit.

When Representative Brand announced that he would not accept his salary increases, given representatives by Congress, the various counties in the district applied for a portion of the amount to carry on work.

Local commissioners voiced their need of a stone-crusher after their visit to Champaign County at Mr. Brand's invitation, last week, and the gift of $500 to Greene County was assured.

The money will be used to purchase the equipment at an early date.

The navy will only enlist young men of good character who can pass the physical examination and give the required references, according to Arthur Argo, C. C. M., U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, Postoffice Building, Dayton.

BOY FISHING IN RIVER GETS BEER

Sandusky, Ohio, Oct. 22.—It all started when a schoolboy, fishing in the Huron River, brought to the surface a case of Canadian beer.

After fishermen had rushed to the scene and dragged case after case from the depths, Sheriff Hry Cole, with deputies, went to the place and began fishing with nets. Six cases of beer rewarded their efforts.

According to authorities, the beer was dumped in the river last week by a rum runner, when he was pursued by a coast guard patrol boat.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Company, Atlanta, Ga. (adv.)

CRITIC PRAISES SANTMYER BOOK

"Author Santmyer taps a brimming current of village life in Ohio. The rarity and validity of Derrick Thornton's talent are deeply impressed. Her unachieved love is made a vital experience. Her rediscovery of life's universal imminence is compelling and beautiful. The book is richly written."

This is what the book critic of "Time," condensed news organ, says of "Herbs and Apples," written by Miss Helen Hooven Santmyer, Xenia girl. The book was recently released by the publishers Houghton and Mifflin.
